EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Digital Innovation Hubs (DIH) are support organisations that make businesses more competitive by speeding up the development and uptake of digital innovations. DIHs are one-stop shops that help companies become more competitive concerning their business/production processes, products, or services using digital technologies.

The selection of materials was based on the identified needs in the AfriConEU community and whether, following our guiding principles, an open-access webinar or template is available on the topics. Multiple projects addressed some topics. The decision on which training to include in the AfriConEU portal has been based on the team's judgment and the relevance of the training.

This overview is actually a snapshot of a live document that will continuously be updated by the team as new needs in the community are identified and new trainings emerge.

The mapped materials will support new DIHs in setting up their organisation and already operating DIHs in optimising their operations and services. Some of the trainings identified are of importance in both of these stages.

Existing organisations/initiatives/networks/projects as DIH helpers for strengthening DIHs capacities in Africa and Europe are also presented, as they can offer DIHs help on various topics.

PROJECT SUMMARY

The AfriConEU project aims to strengthen and reinforce the digital innovation ecosystems in Africa by targeting existing Digital Innovation Hubs (DIHs) and supporting them through capacity building and networking activities. African DIHs are playing a central role in the development of digital entrepreneurship. By raising their capacities to tackle the challenges they face, they will be more effective in driving digital innovation forward.

The AfriConEU project will connect DIHs from Nigeria, Uganda, Ghana and Tanzania with DIHs from Europe with the aim to:

- Facilitate knowledge and experience sharing;
- Drive the development of mutually beneficial partnerships;
- Support the creation of collective projects to boost the digital economy, empower youth, and foster innovation and growth.

The project will develop, test, and validate the "AfriConEU Networking Academy," an innovative mechanism for connecting and sharing best practices, experiences, and resources among DIHs in Africa and between DIHs in Africa and EU, in a comprehensive, replicable and self-sustaining way. Through two flagship programmes, the AfriConEU Networking Academy will empower and enable African DIHs to best serve their local industries, boost their start-up ecosystems, and empower the youth populations in their communities with the necessary skills to thrive in a digitalised world.

The project includes 11 partners from Europe and Africa: ATBN, BUNI HUB, DPIXEL, ECA, HAPA, INOVA+, ITC, OUTBOX, PBS, STIMMULI, and YMH.

Project duration: 01.02.2021-01.02.2024

Topic: ICT-58-2020: International partnership building between European and African innovation hubs

Introduction

Digital Innovation Hubs (DIH) are support organisations that make businesses more competitive by speeding up the development and uptake of digital innovations. DIHs are one-stop shops that help companies become more competitive concerning their business and production processes, products, or services using digital technologies. DIHs provide access to technical expertise and experimentation so that companies can "test before invest." They also offer innovation services, such as financing advice, training, and skills development needed for a successful digital transformation.

The DIH model is entirely in line with the multi-actor approach.

Organisations, which help DIHs (below DIH helpers) can be organisations, networks, initiatives, projects, and more. These organisations help DIHs with:

- Guidelines or programmes for developing DIHs focused on key non-technological issues: ecosystem assessment, business models for DIHs, innovation brokerages, use cases, access to finance;

- Enhancing the collaboration between different stakeholders in the DIH Community with a range of services, information, and tools that help DIHs communicate, align, collaborate and synchronise activities;
- Creating the communities to foster interaction among DIHs, information exchange, and peer-learning.

Existing organisations to strengthen DIH capacities both in Africa and Europe are presented in section

Overview of DIH ecosystem = DIH helpers.

Based on research on the needs of African DIHs, as well as the needs assessment conducted in T2.1 from WP2 and feedback from experts, best practices from existing organisations will be identified.

The aims of this research are to identify:

- How DIHs are trained through DIH establishment, strategy, and business development; service portfolio and development; expansion & networking; sector-specific topic; skills & knowledge creation; communication & awareness;
- What training methods are utilised;
- How knowledge sharing is facilitated;
- What outcomes are achieved;
- How is the measurement of achievement being performed;
- If and which contextual and cultural factors affect DIH's professional development.

For further insights, in-depth interviews with trainers and trainees who participated in these existing programmes were conducted. The results of the survey are presented in chapter Overview of Capacity Building Programmes for DIHs, both fully operational and those in preparation.

Approach and methodology

This chapter deals with the approach we used for finding capacity building materials, which will serve DIHs in expanding their knowledge and support them in their capacity building. Steps that were taken:

- Based on previous experience in projects, a first outline of the main steps to establish and operate the hub has been developed to provide a directed overview of materials needed specifically for this purpose;
- Needs related to establishing and operating the DIHs were identified based on the needs assessment report developed in WP2 and interviews with DIHs across Europe and Africa;
- An overview was made of capacity building needs that have already been identified in the project and summarised in 6 categories;
- A web search of available capacity building materials was performed. The aim was to find brief and instructional materials that the DIHs could use. Materials were mapped and collected in a spreadsheet, which is public on the project's webpage.

The list of all the materials themselves is in the chapter Overview of capacity building.

Overview of DIH ecosystem = DIH helpers

Each DIH helper is presented in a box with short information about the program and its offered services.

Type of organisation	Project
Short description	BOWI project connects digital innovation hubs and SMEs in the discovery of advanced digital solutions. It aims to build a DIH network based on experience and practice sharing. The network supports companies in bringing their most innovative projects to life, aids investors in discovering the leaders of the digital revolution, and helps development agencies understand industry needs. BOWI explores the best solutions for DIH cooperation in the form of technology transfer experiments. They provide open calls for mature DIHs who will benefit from collaboration with developing DIHs, tech transfer experiments, new collaboration and networking. Open calls for developing DIHs provide a 21-month long mentoring and support programme.

Type of organisation	Initiative
Short description	The European Resource Efficiency Knowledge Centre (EREK) helps European companies, especially SMEs, save resources and engage in circular economy and industrial symbiosis. EREK provides tools, information and business opportunities demonstrating new and better ways to be resource efficient and benefit from circular economy business models, which turn waste into assets. Concrete activities include an online platform, news, trends and information on support programmes, a database, and capacity-building and training workshops. To help companies test their performance in resource efficiency, they have developed a Self-Assessment Tool (SAT). Companies received a tailored report grouping together all gathered information and recommendations on becoming more resource-efficient for 11 sectors: office, timber and woodworking, waste collection services, food processing, manufacturing and machinery and equipment, hotels and restaurants, metal and plastics processing, wholesale and retail, textile and clothing, chemicals and process, constructions.

Overview of Capacity Building Programmes for DIHS, both fully operational and those in preparation

Five supporting guiding principles for capacity building are:

- Ease of access;
- Goal setting;
- Proactivity;
- Collaboration (peer-to-peer feedback);
- Engagement mechanisms.

The selection of materials was based on the identified needs in the AfriConEU community and whether, following our guiding principles, an open-access webinar or template is available on the topics. Multiple projects addressed some topics. Here, the decision on which training to include in the AfriConEU portal has been based on the team's judgment and the relevance of the training.

This overview is actually a snapshot of a live document that will continuously be updated by the team as new needs in the community are identified.

The mapped materials will support new DIHs in setting up their organisation and already operating DIHs in optimising their operations and services. Some of the trainings identified are of importance in both of these stages.

CONCLUSION

The mapped materials (capacity building programmes) will support new DIHs in setting up their organisation and already operating DIHs in optimising their operations and services. DIHs can find the most valuable information at DIHs helpers. The selection of materials was based on the identified needs in the AfriConEU community. This overview is actually a snapshot of a live document that will continuously be updated by the team as new needs in the community are identified and new trainings emerge. Capacity building is essential for all organizations, because it is the process of developing and organization's strength and sustainability.
